Sage

You have enough to do . . . let us help you manage training in your organization.

Organizations that get the most out of their software are those that take advantage of training for both new and seasoned team members, but keeping track of who has taken what course can feel like a full-time job in itself. We'd like to help!

If your company uses Sage solutions and you have three or more team members who need training, we can promote you to "team training manager" in Sage University. This will give you 24/7 online access to assign training as well as review your teams' training progress. There is absolutely no charge to take advantage of this functionality once you are approved!

"Our managers saved a lot of time because they didn't have to train new employees . . . We cut our calls into tech support by 50%"
—Sage 100 customer

"This online training is beneficial for someone coming on to a new product."
—Don Goldman, US Waste

Sign up on Sage University today to more easily:

• Ensure everyone is using the solution effectively and efficiently.

• Get the maximum benefit out of your software.

• Save time and money by training new team members though Sage University right from the start.

• Take advantage of the latest new features and functionality for your software as they become available.

• Stay committed to helping your team grow and succeed.

Training is more than just a way to get the most out of your software. It helps your team members grow when you invest in their skill set and boost their knowledge. And with Sage, you can also give your team the opportunity to become certified in the software—a real win/win for both employees and employers.

Request designation today!

Sage